By the Post.

THE States-General separated on Saturday, and are adjourned to the 14th. During their Session the Ambassador of France was very earnest with them to have a positive Answer upon the Proposal he made some time ago, concerning the Neutrality of the Netherlands. The States themselves to preclude, invited separately the Ministers of the Emperor and his Britannick Majesty to Conferences, to know the Answer they had received from their respective Masters upon that important Affair. The first told them in few Words, that his Imperial Majesty found that Proposal so unreasonable that he could never agree to it: But added, that the Emperor his Master may probably talk to the King of Great Britain about it. And the British Minister answered in general Terms, that the King his Master could not enter into such an Affair, because the Netherlands belong at present to the Emperor, who only as Sovereign must be addressed to on such an Occasion. These Answers having been communicated to the Ambassador of France, he appeared not well content with them. But pretending to have heard of an Alliance on Foot, between the Emperor, the King of Great Britain, and this State, he represented to their High Mightinesses that it is of the last Importance to the States-General to renew their Alliances with France, on which the Security and Liberty of this Republick in a great Measure depend. He took Occasion at the same time to express his Joy, that the Troubles of Scotland were now being finished, knowing the Part the States take in it: But adding, that it may be now seen that France has no ways contributed to the extravagant Enterprize of the Pretender; some of the principal Members of the Assembly before whom he spoke, could not forbear mentioning the Conduct of the Governor of Calais, towards the Express sent by the Duke of Stairs with a Letter to him, to hinder the Departure of some Officers who were embarking for Scotland; of which this Minister seemed to have no manner of Knowledge.

Letters from a good Hand at Paris advise, that the Council of the Regency find themselves in Difficulties on many Accounts, among which these are chief. The Council of the Admiralty demand such great Sums as well for building New Ships as repairing the Old, and for replenishing the Magazines of the Navy, as will be almost impossible to furnish in the present Conjuncture. The Council of Conscience has made and proposed divers new Projects for putting a stop to the increase of Heresy, and to finish the Destruction of it: And the Duke of Savoy has written a Letter to the Regent, demanding his Assistance in case he be attacked by the Emperor. The Republick of Venice solicits the same against the Turks. And at last the King of Sweden presses continually for Subsidies, and a Detachment of Ships of War to reinforce his Fleet.

By the Post, March 10. The Emperor's Minister having received an Answer from his Court upon the Resolution of the States to accept the Mediation of his Imperial Majesty in the Affair of Bonn, has let their Majesty know, that the Emperor is of Opinion that their High Mightinesses ought not to say too far the Point of Satisfaction, but content themselves with the writing of a friendly Letter to the Elector of Cologne to terminate this Affair, in order to give his Imperial Majesty the right to put into Bonn's good Garrison of Imperial Troops, or those of the Circle. His Excellency added, that the Elector had written to him, that the States might be furnished with the Subsidies he formerly given and now requests, if they liberally with them in good Neighbourhood and Friendship, as the reciprocal Interests of Alliances demand: For which purpose he is ready to enter into a defensive Alliance with the State in such Manner as his Imperial Majesty shall approve of, and that he will even with the Emperor's Consent, give way to the Demolition of Bonn, upon Condition that the Body of the Place may still remain enclosed, and that the Place of his Residence be not an open Village. In all Appearance, this Affair may be made up: But that Minister adding afterwards, that with respect to the Citadel of Liege and the Castle of Huy, the Emperor would be glad the new Fortifications should be razed according to the Barrier Treaty, but that the old ones built before the War may rest as they are: And as for St. Peter's Fort near Maestricht, he refers to what he has formerly said; People of Discernment infer, that they would make us buy, as we may say, the preservation of that Fort by a violation of the Barrier Treaty, the 17th Article whereof declares positively, that the Fortifications and all the Works of the Citadel of Liege and Castle of Huy, with all the Forts and Outworks, shall be razed and demolished, never to be built again. And it is to be apprehended, that in case the Elector of Cologne insists upon this last Article, the Satisfaction the States demand for Bonn may encrease, and retard the good Harmony and Correspondence which the Elector seems so much to desire with this State.

Letters from Hamburg having spoken of the Swedes having taken the Island of St. Thomas in America, and Fort Fredericksburg upon the Coast of Guinea, belonging to the King of Denmark, gave Occasion to the East India Company at their last Meeting at Amsterdam to examine into that Matter, because of the Consequences that may attend it. But after some Search they found that this News could not be true, seeing that but a Week before a Ship arrived at Amsterdam from St. Thomas which had been but five Weeks upon her Voyage, who declare they know nothing of it. And another Ship is lately arrived from a Dutch Port but six Leagues distant from Fredericksburg in Guinea, and also knows nothing at all of the taking of that Place.

London, March 13.

Yesterday arrived two Mails from Holland.

From the Amsterdam Courant, dated March 10. By the Post, March 7. Yesterday an Express from Constantinople sent by the British Ambassador Mr. Sutton arrived here in his way to London, with Letters from the Sultan and the Grand Vizier, with the Answer to the Notification made by that Minister to the Porte, of his Britannick Majesty's Accession to the Crown. He brought also Letters from M. Fleischman, and General Lischoltz, who commands at Peterwaradin. This Express intimated in Conversation, that he understood both from the Imperial Resident and from others, that the Turks will this Year have a great Fleet at Sea to take Corsa and other Islands; that they will have a great Army in Dalmatia; but that they are come to a Resolution of breaking with the Emperor this Year. The Advices we have had of the great Rendezvous of the Turks about Belgrade and Philippopolis were not true, for the Express declares that there are no greater Number of Troops than usual. Also the News we had from Wallachia and Moldavia, of the Insurrection of the Janizaries, the bawling of the Grand Vizier, and the Flight of the Sultan, is wholly false; since this Express has been but 23 Days upon the Road, and when he came away all was quiet at Constantinople.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 10.

By the Post, March 7. By the last Advices arrived from Constantinople we are informed, that the Grand Vizier is resolved to make War against the Emperor, but the Mufti is against it: That M. Fleischman has had Audience of the Grand Vizier, and has been complimented by the Mufti upon the Emperor's being with Child. This now publicly talked, that the Treaty with the Venetians, to force war them against the Turks, is concluded.
